

Dear Hiring Team,

I am interested in applying for the Intern – Software Development (Java) position at John Keells Information Technology. I am currently a third-year Information Technology undergraduate at the Sri Lanka Institute of Information Technology with a strong interest in Java-based software development and enterprise application design.

Through my academic and personal projects, I have gained experience in developing database-driven applications and RESTful services while working collaboratively using version control tools. I have also developed an understanding of the Software Development Life Cycle, including testing practices, deployment workflows, and technical documentation.

I am eager to further develop my practical skills in a professional environment and contribute to real-world software development initiatives. I am a quick learner, adaptable to new technologies, and motivated to grow both technically and professionally as part of a collaborative team.

Thank you for considering my application.
